

Midrange Dynamics Joins the Fresche Power Partner Program

A tight alliance and complementary product lines deliver additional options that support IBM i modernization initiatives.

ZUG, Switzerland – April 3, 2017 – Midrange Dynamics, a global supplier of change management solutions for the IBM i is pleased to announce that it has joined the Fresche Power Partner Program as a reseller member.

Midrange Dynamics's long-time approach to supporting its customers' modernization projects aligns closely with the goals of Fresche's partner initiative.

"For several years, we have made it a priority to integrate Midrange Dynamics Change Management (MDCMS) with leading application, user interface, and database modernization solutions," says Michael Morgan, a founder and managing partner at Midrange Dynamics. "MDCMS customers can choose the tools that best fit their modernization approach and development environment."

"Within weeks of formally joining the Power Partner Program, we had opportunities to present Fresche's solutions to Midrange Dynamics change management users who quickly made the decision to purchase. Our sales collaboration is off to a good start," says Mr. Morgan.

A Natural Fit

Working closely with Fresche is not new to Midrange Dynamics. When Fresche released its open API for X-Analysis, Midrange Dynamics was eager to create a unified software change management workflow that encompasses X-Analysis, including Fresche View.

Integration with X-Analysis is the latest addition to Midrange Dynamics's modernization support for Fresche solutions. For example, MDCMS interfaces with WebSmart to give IBM i shops enterprise-level change management for applications developed with the rapid web application development solution. MDCMS also supports Presto, Fresche's IBM i green screen and mobile modernization tool.

"MD has been working closely with the Fresche team to create deep integrations with our solutions, and we look forward to announcing new interfaces this spring," says Mr. Morgan.

"Midrange Dynamics is well known for their product and service excellence. We are very pleased to have them as part of the Fresche Power Partner Program. IBM i clients who work with Midrange Dynamics will benefit greatly by gaining access to Fresche's analysis and modernization tools through their trusted Midrange Dynamics consultants," said Jennifer Fisher, Vice President of Channels at Fresche. "Technology integration and support for modern solutions is key as we and our partners look to streamline the overall process of application modernization, development, and management for IBM i clients around the world."

Through its new Power Partner Program, Fresche gives partners access to the broadest solutions portfolio in the world. This supports Fresche's goal to help Power Partner Program members and their customers tackle IBM i modernization projects.
